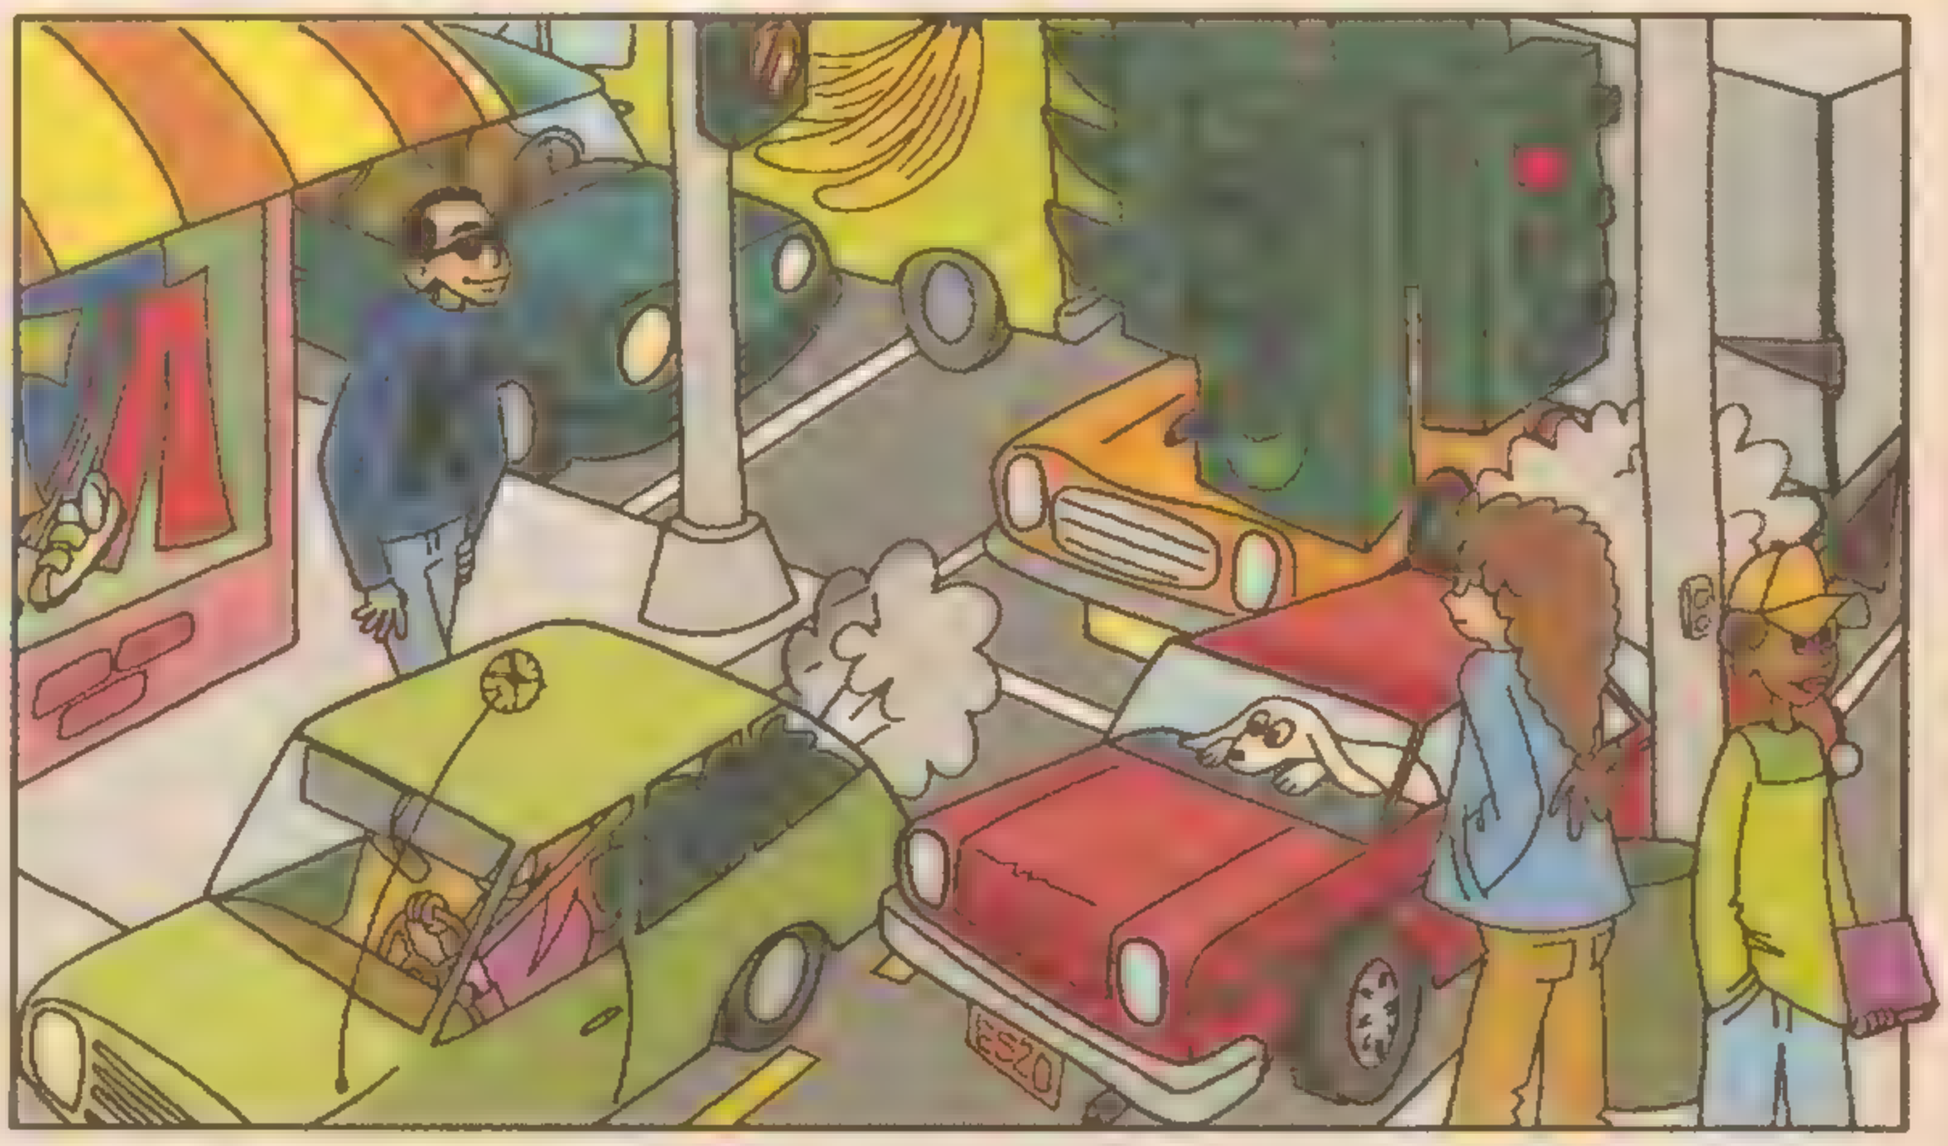
Traffic Signals

By Robert Johnson-Delgado
Mt.Vernon, NY



With the invention of the car and the building of roads, traffic and danger on these roads became a serious issue. Car accidents became a constant problem as well as people getting hit by cars as intersections became busy. Policemen were sometimes stationed in the middle of busier intersections to help control traffic, but even they were not safe, as not everyone obeyed the laws. In 1868, a railroad signaling engineer, J.P. Knight, invented and installed the first traffic light. Its lights were gas powered and proved to be very dangerous when one exploded and killed a policeman. In 1914, Cleveland had the first red-green traffic light and in 1918, New York had the three-color light. Both were manual and had to be controlled by someone. In 1923, an inventor named Garrett Morgan patented the first electric traffic light. It had the ability to be run on timers and free of human supervision. This greatly reduced the accident rate and man power needed to run the lights on a 24-hour basis. He later sold the rights of the signal to General Electric Company. In London, a system of signals were invented that relied on sensors in the ground to dictate the flow of traffic. This system made it possible for the heavier traffic to flow more freely as the sensors evaluated the flow of traffic and adjusted the signals accordingly. Today, millions of traffic signals are in use around the world. They are not only used on roadways, but also used in airports, on railroads and shipping lanes.

EDITOR'S NOTEBOOK

Dear Archie Readers,

All you Betty fans out there, pay attention. It looks like there might be a new man in Betty's life. Well, almost....maybe....the jury's still out. A new boy, named Adam, has a major crush on Betty and would like to date her. At first, Betty thinks, "What about Archie?" However, in spite of this burning question, she finds herself gravitating towards Adam. So, all you Betty fans, what about Archie? Here's where you come in.

When you pick up your copy of BETTY #87, at the end of the story entitled "The Dilemma," you will have an opportunity to give your opinion as to what you think Betty should do. Dump Archie? Dump Adam? Date both of them? Hey, that's why it's a dilemma. Look for this issue on sale next month.

Frankie's back! Yes, by popular demand, Frankie Valdez, whose last major appearance was in Betty & Veronica Spectacular #24, returns to Riverdale. Frankie has also started seeing his old girlfriend, Maria. It least that's what Betty and Veronica think, until they see him spending a lot of time with Brigitte. Has Frankie been taking lessons from fickle, freckled, Archie?

It's fun reading in BETTY & VERONICA SPECTACULAR #42.

Another weird mystery is in store for Archie and the gang. In our 6th issue of ARCHIE'S WEIRD MYSTERIES, these curious teenagers and Hot Dog enroll in a Paranormal Investigation Camp. What they encounter deep in the woods might even give the Blair Witch a scare. This story we call "A Familiar Old Haunt" is a spine-tingling, rib-tickling spoof of an old '70's Saturday morning TV show that some of your parents might be familiar with. But don't take my word for it, read it before all the copies are sold out. Also, don't forget to watch Archie's Weird Mysteries on PAX TV. It's on almost every day. Check your cable listings for time and channel.
